GOVERNOR MAJOR INTRODUCES INNOVATION IN HIS PROCLAMATION.

LAST YEAR A BLESSED ONE

Urges All Citizens to Join in Silent Supplication at 10 a. m., November 25 in Return for Divine Guidance and Favor.

Jefferson City There is a marked innovation in the Thanksgiving proclamation issued by Governor Major this year.

There is a call in it that is not to be found in any other Thanksgiving proclamation, national or state. In addition to the general worship recommended, the governor asks that every citizen offer a silent prayer at 10 a. m., November 25.

This he believes is the proper way for the 3,500,000 citizens of Missouri to show their appreciation of the many blessings they have received in the past year.

The last year, the governor says, has been one richly laden with blossings and achievements for the Amer ican people. Peace, plenty and prosperity are theirs, and the rumble of the wheels of commerce has not been supplanted by the rumble of the cannon's wheels.

Missouri, as a state, has received her full share in all things good, and has advanced in all ways that make it great, he says.

Quiz Committee Makes Report

Fragmentary portions of the report of the special house committee appointed to investigate alleged extravagances and inefficiency in the offices of the state auditor, secretary of state state treasurer, insurance department and state penitentiary have been published from time to time. The full report of the committee has now been filed with the governor.

There is a majority report and minority report on the auditor's office and on the penitentiary. The full committee signs the report on all the other offices named. A majority of the committee de-
